The Changing Faces of Glutathione, a Cellular Protagonist Alfonso Pompella,Alessandro Corti,2015-07-17

Glutathione GSH has been described for a long time just as a defensive reagent against the action of toxic xenobiotics drugs pollutants carcinogens both directly and as a cofactor for GSH transferases As a prototype antioxidant it has been involved in cell protection from the noxious effect of excess oxidant stress both directly and as a cofactor of glutathione peroxidases In addition it has long been known that GSH is capable of forming disulfide bonds with cysteine residues of proteins and the relevance of this mechanism S glutathionylation in regulation of protein function has been well documented in a number of research fields Rather paradoxically it has also been highlighted that GSH and notably its catabolites as originated by metabolism by gamma glutamyltransferase can promote oxidative processes by participating in metal ion mediated reactions eventually leading to formation of reactive oxygen species and free radicals Also a fundamental role of GSH has been recognized in the storage and transport of nitric oxide NO in the form of S nitrosoglutathione GSNO The significance of GSH as a major factor in regulation of cell life proliferation and death can be regarded as the integrated result of all these roles as well as of more which are emerging in diverse fields of biology and pathophysiology Against this background modulation of GSH levels and GSH related enzyme activities represents a fertile field for experimental pharmacology in numerous and diverse perspectives of animal plant and microbiologic research This research topic includes 14 articles i e 4 Opinion Articles 6 Reviews and 4 Original Research Articles The contributions by several distinguished research groups each from his own standpoint of competence and expertise provide a comprehensive and updated view over the diverse roles the changing faces of GSH and GSH related enzymes in cell s health disease and death simultaneously serve all three dimensions of sustainability including economic social and environmental. Rapid inclusive and sustainable industrialization can happen more frequently provided that policymakers firmly steer the industrialization process with opportune policies and avoid past mistakes. In some cases the spread of technology has not materialized in concrete growth opportunities because of the lack of technological capabilities.
