Brown, 1991 Reports of crisis in the cost and provision of health care have been associated with the idea of national health insurance in Canada since its inception. Certainly Canadians have often been warned there are overworked and underpaid health care providers, shortages of expensive equipment and limited hospital facilities all of which can lead to delays in service and sometimes fatal consequences for patients. Numerous arguments have been made as to why this situation exists, ranging from technological change, consumer ignorance, the monopoly power of health workers and the special nature of health care demand. Health Economics and Policy explores the economic realities and illusions of the many problems facing the Canadian health care system and how this has changed over time. It compares expenditures across the provinces and territories and between Canada, the U.S., Britain and Australia. Individual chapters explore in detail the financing of medical, hospital and other institutional care. Structural problems in the organization of services are examined and the implication for policy of numerous factors including privatization schemes, extra billing fee for services, excessive consumer use and free trade are studied. Particular attention is devoted to the policy options available to those who manage the health system.
