Modern Mathematics Dirk De Bock, 2023-03-08 The international New Math developments between about 1950 through 1980 are regarded by many mathematics educators and education historians as the most historically important development in curricula of the twentieth century It attracted the attention of local and international politicians of teachers and of parents and influenced the teaching and learning of mathematics at all levels kindergarten to college graduate in many nations After garnering much initial support it began to attract criticism But as Bill Jacob and the late Jerry Becker show in Chapter 17 some of the effects became entrenched This volume edited by Professor Dirk De Bock of Belgium provides an outstanding overview of the New Math modern mathematics movement Chapter authors provide exceptionally high quality analyses of the rise of the movement and of subsequent developments within a range of nations The first few chapters show how the initial leadership came from mathematicians in European nations and in the United States of America The background leaders in Europe were Caleb Gattegno and members of a mysterious group of mainly French pure mathematicians who since the 1930s had published under the name of a fictitious Nicolas Bourbaki In the United States there emerged during the 1950s various attempts to improve U S mathematics curricula and teaching especially in secondary schools and colleges This side of the story climaxed in 1957 when the Soviet Union succeeded in launching Sputnik the first satellite Undoubtedly this is a landmark publication in education The foreword was written by Professor Bob Moon one of a few other scholars to have written on the New Math from an international perspective The final epilogue chapter by Professor Geert Vanpaemel a historian draws together the overall thrust of the volume and makes links with the general history of curriculum development especially in science education including recent globalization trends

Developing Mathematical Literacy in the Context of the Fourth Industrial Revolution Espinosa, Edgar Oliver Cardoso, 2021-03-12 In the context of the Fourth Industrial Revolution a world of continuous alterations is glimpsed where science and technology are at the base of economic competitiveness and where innovation plays a strategic role in global competition so that they are forced to cover a series of requirements to compete successfully in an increasingly globalized economy including high investments in both education and research. Along these lines the formation of mathematical learning is important because it is oriented towards the development of a set of skills with the aim of resolving situations of daily and professional lives. It focuses on the acquisition of employing the different ways of representing information in the form of models, constructions and graphs to determine the best decision making. In this sense it includes the mastery of the handling of numbers, measures and structures to carry out the interpretation of operations and representations of a quantitative nature on personal and professional situations. For a society to favor innovation the use of mathematical information is an essential condition that allows the development of creativity and analysis of information. Mathematics education plays a vital role in this development. Developing Mathematical Literacy in the Context of the Fourth Industrial Revolution studies the formation of mathematical abilities in the context of the Fourth Industrial Revolution regarding its development of both teaching and learning strategies as well as the use of ICT and its use in the development of this discipline in students. It is important that teachers of any educational level reorient their teaching strategies and their role as educators. Therefore the chapters discuss up to date and relevant information on teaching and didactic tasks in the subject of mathematics. This book highlights mathematical pedagogies, ICT in mathematics learning, teacher training and classroom strategies for mathematics. It is intended for teachers, pedagogical advisors, business trainers, higher education staff, administrators, teacher educators, practitioners, stakeholders, researchers, academicians and students interested in mathematical literacy in the fourth industrial revolution.

The book is written to share ideas stemming from technology rich K 12 mathematics education courses taught by the author to American and Canadian teacher candidates over the past two decades. It includes examples of problems posed by the teacher candidates using computers. These examples are analyzed through the lenses of the theory proposed in the book. Also the book includes examples of computer enabled formulation as well as reformulation of rather advanced problems associated with the pre digital era problem solving curriculum. The goal of the problem reformulation is at least two fold to make curriculum materials compatible with the modern day emphasis on democratizing mathematics education and to find the right balance between positive and negative affordances of technology. The book focuses on the use of spreadsheets, Wolfram Alpha, Maple and The Graphing Calculator also known as NuCalc in problem posing. It can be used by pre service and in service teachers interested in K 12 mathematics curriculum development in the digital era as well as by those studying mathematics education from a theoretical perspective.
