The Analytic Hierarchy Process in Natural Resource and Environmental Decision Making Daniel L. Schmoldt, 2001-06-30 Decision making in land management involves preferential selection among competing alternatives Often such choices are difficult owing to the complexity of the decision context Because the analytic hierarchy process AHP developed by Thomas Saaty in the 1970s has been successfully applied to many complex planning resource allocation and priority setting problems in business energy health marketing natural resources and transportation more applications of the AHP in natural resources and environmental sciences are appearing regularly This realization has prompted the authors to collect some of the important works in this area and present them as a single volume for managers and scholars Because land management contains a somewhat unique set of features not found in other AHP application areas such as site specific decisions group participation and collaboration and incomplete scientific knowledge this text fills a void in the literature on management science and decision analysis for forest resources

Carsharing Services. A potential analysis of alternative business models in the automotive industry Christian Acht, 2016-04-18 Seminar paper from the year 2015 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 1 3 University of Marburg Research Group Technology and Innovation Management course Tutorial language English abstract Carsharing is rapidly growing service that gains more and more acceptance among car drivers By now alternative business models exist in search of new customers This term paper aims to evaluate the potential of alternative carsharing business models in the automotive industry Therefore it will first set theoretical foundations by introducing different forms of carsharing and business model concepts In a second step dominant forms will be exemplified by applying it to a business model framework In a last step the author will make use of a SWOT analysis to examine potentials of each carsharing business model This paper will exclusively concentrate on business to customer carsharing services on the German market Other forms of the shared mobility will not be considered Carsharing is a special form of the so called access based consumption It refers to transactions that are market mediated but without transfer of property The term carsharing or short term auto use describes a principle where individuals gain advantage from private car use without the costs and commitments of ownership Core characteristics are a short rental period simple access to vehicles and good transition to other forms of mobility This way of utilization is applicable for intermediate travel and routine activities Even though carsharing emerged in Europe between the 1940s and 1980s it ultimately became popular in the 1990s Since then it is spreading and growing all over the continent Among others one crucial factor for this development is that by 2020 55 per cent of the world population is expected to live in cities which will lead to considerable space infrastructure and environmental problems Thus the possession of a private car becomes more and more unattractive as overstrained infrastructures make a smooth flow of traffic impossible Carsharing has to be distinguished from other types of shared mobility solutions like ride sharing concepts such as Uber which are not treated in this paper
