Data-Based Radiation Oncology - Design of Clinical Trials Kerstin A. Kessel,Anne W. Lee,Søren M. Bentzen,Bhadrasain Vikram,Fridtjof Nuesslin,Stephanie E. Combs,2018-04-12 In radiation oncology as in many other specialties clinical trials are essential to investigate new therapy approaches Usually preparation for a prospective clinical trial is extremely time consuming until ethics approval is obtained To test a new treatment usually many years pass before it can be implemented in the routine care During that time already new interventions emerge new drugs appear on the market technical physical innovations are being implemented novel biology driven concepts are translated into clinical approaches while we are still investigating the ones from years ago Another problem is associated with molecular diagnostics and the growing amount of tumor specific biomarkers which allows for a better stratification of patient subgroups On the other side this may result in a much longer time for patient recruiting and consequently in larger multicenter trials Moreover all of the relevant data must be readily available for treatment decision making treatment as well as follow up and ultimately for trial evaluation This challenges even more for agreed standards in data acquisition quality and management How could we change the way currently clinical trials are performed in a way they are safe and ethically justifiable and speed up the initiation process so we can provide new and better treatments faster for our patients Further while we rely on various quantitative information handling distributed large heterogeneous amounts of data efficiently is very important Thus data management becomes a strong focus A good infrastructure helps to plan tailor and conduct clinical trials in a way they are easy and quickly analyzable In this research topic we want to discuss new ideas for intelligent trial designs and concepts for data management

Digital Professionalism in Health and Care: Developing the Workforce, Building the Future Philip Scott,John Mantas,Arriel Benis,Ivana Ognjanovic,Kaija Saranto,Andrew Ware,Ian Wells,2022-09-15 Digital technology has become integral in the fields of health and care and a number of recent reports have stressed the importance of equipping health and care staff with the skills and knowledge they need to use such technology effectively Numerous failures of digital projects in the health and care sectors have demonstrated that simply relocating IT generalists into these specialist fields is not a guaranteed formula for success the unique complexities of the typically under resourced legacy infrastructures of health and care create challenges that demand specific education and training This book presents the proceedings of the European Federation for Medical Informatics EFMI 2022 Special Topic Conference STC held in Cardiff Wales on 7 8 September 2022 The theme of STC 2022 was Digital Professionalism in Health and Care Developing the Workforce Building the Future which emphasized the vital need for professional education training and continuing development of the health and care informatics workforce The 30 full papers and 5 posters in this book cover a broad range of topics and methods in informatics education and training and include a small selection from the wider sub domains of biomedical informatics Providing a valuable overview of current methods and training the book will be of interest to a wide range of professionals working in healthcare

today especially those involved in equipping the workforce with the skills they will need for the digital future
