

My Autobiography

I am Adrian Carl V. Dumat-ol. I am currently studying at Lanao del Norte Comprehensive High School. I'm working on an autobiographical essay about a life event that motivates me to study harder. I am writing about my experience when I found out that I have half siblings. That incident had a huge impact on me.

It all happened one summer day in 2011 when I was still 6 years old. At that time, I had no idea that I had a half sibling. One day, my father told me to go with him because we were going to visit my aunt. While we were traveling, my father told me that there was something that I needed to know, and he never told me that it was all about my half-siblings. When we arrived at my aunt's house, I noticed my big sister, and at that time, I didn't know she was my half sibling. All I knew is that we have the same mother, which is not.

While we were talking, father revealed a family secret to me that I had not known since I was born. That is, my older sister and I are not purely siblings because we had different mothers. I didn't believe them at first, but as I looked into their eyes, they seemed very serious. My half-sister spoke to me, and she confirmed everything our father had said, and she reassured me that even though we have different mothers, we are still siblings. I feel better and relieved after we talk.

Several years have passed, and my half siblings are changing the way they treat us. So I keep my distance and stop contacting them. They asked our father why I was not contacting them. Back then, I was the one who was going to chat with them first or contact them. They confronted me about why I was avoiding them, and I told them that they were the first ones who changed the way they treated us.

One day, my half siblings start making rumors that because of my mother, our father is starting to lose money, which is not true. So I was stunned by what they said. I asked them why they started to spread rumors about my mother. They made a lot of excuses and now we are still on bad terms.

Even though many problems happen, I need to stay strong and not be affected by what happened. I need to respect my elders, even if they have done bad things to me. Do not put your faith in all of their promises because there is a chance they will break them. Always choose good deeds because of all of the things you have done, God will always watch you.

Example Of Autobiography Novel About Yourself:

Philosophy As Fiction : Self, Deception, and Knowledge in Proust Joshua Landy Associate Professor in the Department of French and Italian Stanford University, 2004-07-21 Philosophy as Fiction seeks to account for the peculiar power of philosophical literature by taking as its case study the paradigmatic generic hybrid of the twentieth century Marcel Proust's In Search of Lost Time. At once philosophical in that it presents claims and even deploys arguments concerning such traditionally philosophical issues as knowledge, self-deception, selfhood, love, friendship, and art, and literary in that its situations are imaginary and its stylization inescapably prominent, Proust's novel presents us with a conundrum: How should it be read? Can the two discursive structures co-exist, or must philosophy inevitably undermine literature by sapping the narrative of its vitality, and literature undermine philosophy by placing its claims in the mouth of an often unreliable narrator? In the case of Proust, at least, the result is greater than the sum of its parts. Not only can a coherent, distinctive philosophical system be extracted from the Recherche, once the narrator's periodic waywardness is taken into account, not only does a powerfully original style pervade its every nook, overtly reinforcing some theories and covertly exemplifying others, but aspects of the philosophy also serve literary ends, contributing more to character than to conceptual framework. What, more, aspects of the aesthetics serve philosophical ends, enabling a reader to engage in an active manner with an alternative art of living. Unlike the essay Proust might have written, his novel grants us the opportunity to use it as a practice ground for cooperation among our faculties, for the careful sifting of memories, for the complex procedures involved in self-fashioning, and for the related art of self-deception. It is only because the narrator's insights do not always add up, a weakness so long as one treats the novel as a straightforward treatise, that it can produce its training effect, a feature that turns out to be its ultimate strength.

A Novel Marketplace Evan Brier, 2012-02-25 As television transformed American culture in the 1950s, critics feared the influence of this newly pervasive mass medium on the nation's literature. While many studies have addressed the rhetorical response of artists and intellectuals to mid-twentieth-century mass culture, the relationship between the emergence of this culture and the production of novels has gone largely unexamined. In A Novel Marketplace, Evan Brier illuminates the complex ties between postwar mass culture and the making, marketing, and reception of American fiction. Between 1948, when television began its ascendancy, and 1959, when Random House became a publicly owned corporation, the way American novels were produced and distributed changed considerably. Analyzing a range of mid-century novels, including Paul Bowles's The Sheltering Sky, Ray Bradbury's Fahrenheit 451, Sloan Wilson's The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit, and Grace Metalious's Peyton Place, Brier reveals the specific strategies used to carve out cultural and economic space for the American novel just as it seemed most under threat. During this anxious historical moment, the book business underwent an improbable expansion by capitalizing on an economic boom and a rising population of educated consumers, and by forming institutional alliances with educators and cold warriors to promote reading as both a cultural and political good. A Novel

Marketplace tells how the book trade and the novelists themselves successfully positioned their works as embattled holdouts against an oppressive mass culture even as publishers formed partnerships with mass culture institutions that foreshadowed the multimedia mergers to come in the 1960s As a foil for and a partner to literary institutions mass media corporations assisted in fostering the novel's development as both culture and commodity Free Within Ourselves Jewell Parker Rhodes,2010-03-31 A Bird by Bird for the African American market A top notch writer's guide filled with practical guidance essays and journal exercises for the African American writer including advice from E Lynn Harris Charles Johnson and Yolanda Joe In her introduction Jewell Parker Rhodes writes Never in four years of college or five years of graduate school was I assigned an exercise or given a story example that included a person of color While the educational system and the publishing world have become progressively more welcoming of African American authors there is still little attention to educating supporting and sustaining the writing process of African American authors Free Within Ourselves is a solid first step it is the book I wished I had when I started out as a writer It is meant to be a song of encouragement for African American artists and visionaries Free Within Ourselves is a step by step introduction to fictional technique exploring story ideas and charting one's progress as well as a resource guide for publishing fiction For the legions of people who have a novel stuck in their word processors help is finally on the way Free Within Ourselves is an excellent guide to all the elements necessary to crafting fiction character development point of view plot atmosphere dialogue diction sentence variety and revision Writing techniques are taught using exercises journaling story examples and analyses of famous writing fragments as well as several complete stories including those of James Baldwin Zora Neale Hurston and Edwidge Danticat among others The book is further enhanced by inspirational advice from successful contemporary black writers such as Bebe Moore Campbell Rita Dove Henry Louis Gates John Edgar Wideman and others a bibliography and a guide to workshops journals magazines contests and fellowships supportive of black arts Your Self-Discovery Journal Sara Katherine,2022-03-29 Take the time to get to know yourself and start living a life full of joy self awareness and self love with this journal and guidebook designed to help you find your passions purpose motivations and more Self discovery is an important and exciting process When you connect with your inner self you will feel more confident in your decisions and your ability to move towards a path that is authentically aligned with you In Your Self Discovery Journal you will find inspiring thoughtful exercises guided journal prompts creative activities meditations and more that will guide you to a deeper truer understanding of yourself These practical and inspiring activities will help you identify your values strengths weaknesses talents and more You'll learn how to celebrate the things that make you unique and discover practical ideas for staying motivated facing fears or discomfort and giving yourself grace throughout your self discovery process Start your journey of self discovery today Generic Instability and Identity in the Contemporary Novel Madelena Gonzalez,2009-12-14 Contemporary aesthetics is characterized by generic mixing on the level of both form and content The barriers between different media and different genres have been broken down in all literary art forms whether it be theatre poetry or the novel While the publishing industry is increasingly keen to label novels according to genre or sub genre Chick Lit Lad Lit Gay fiction Scottish fiction New Historical Fiction Crime fiction Post 9 11 Fiction the novel itself and novelists persist in resisting generic categorizations as well as inviting them Is this a move towards a new artistic liberty or does it simply testify to a confusion of identity The aesthetic supermarket evoked by Lodge in 1992 does indeed seem to sum up the variety of choices open to writers of fiction today and a literary landscape characterized by crossover and hybridization The familiar dialectic of realism versus experimentation has segued into a middle ground of consensus which is neither radical nor populist but both at the same time The techniques of postmodernism have become selling points for novels and the Postmodern Condition itself seems little more than a narrative posture marketed for an increasingly wide audience Whether they have recourse to a repertoire of imposture Amis Self Winterson as Richard Bradford would have it The Novel Now 2007 in other words the abandonment of any obligation to explain or justify their excursions from credulity and mimesis or like the New Puritans make use of narrative minimalism in order to foreground their own peculiarities contemporary novelists consistently draw attention to the fundamental instability of narrative process and genre The much feared apocalypse of the novel has failed to take place with the arrival of the new millennium but generic game playing and flickering narrative hesitation and uncertainty continue to pose the question of what constitutes a novel today and to challenge its identity in a world where all culture is increasingly public increasingly contested and increasingly multifarious Thanks to theoretical approaches as well as analyses of specific works this collection of essays aims to examine the concepts of generic instability and cross fertilization of narrative postures and impostures and their constant redefinition of identity which contaminates the very concept of genre It demonstrates the diversity of generic practices in the novel today and furnishes us with undeniable evidence of how generic instability is fundamentally constitutive of the contemporary novel's identity
