QUESTION 3

3.1 Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

Peat lands are special wetlands that play a very important role in ecology. A peat land, of approximately 6 000 years old, near Mafikeng is almost destroyed because of excessive extraction of water from the nearby Molopo river. The water is extracted for human consumption.

Peat lands like the one near Mafikeng is exceptional and play an important role in storing water as well as preventing climate changes.

Dr Petrus Louw Grundling said that carbon that is 'held' or 'stored' by peat lands contributes climate change because it decreases the amount of carbon in the atmosphere.

Peat lands trap about one third of the world's carbon. Approximately 50% of wetlands worldwide are peat lands. However in South Africa about 10% of the wetlands are peat lands.

Grundling explained that peat lands can hold about 1 000 times its own mass in water. This replenishes the water table and is the source that keeps streams flowing. The 'sponge effect' of the peat also makes it possible to store water that is then released during dry seasons.

Dr Grundling said that it might be too late to restore the peat land near Mafikeng but it might be possible to restore some parts of it if more water is supplied to this peat land.

The result of this destruction is depletion of the water table. The habitat of numerous fish and frog species that lived in the peat land was also destroyed.

From: Beeld 21 September 2010.

3.3.1 Give TWO other reasons (not mentioned in the passage) that can lead to the destruction of wetlands. (2)

3.3.2 Discuss reasons from the passage regarding the importance of these specific wetlands for the environment. (2)

3.3.3 Suggest a way in which this peat land near Mafikeng can be restored. (2)

Dianna T. Kenny

Life Science Paper Exemplar November 2014:

Edinburgh Companion to the Politics of American Health Sophie A. Jones, Martin Halliwell, 2022-06-17 By emphasising the plurality of health experiences and balancing national and transnational perspectives with the lived realities of diverse communities this groundbreaking collection expands far beyond biomedical conceptions of health. Together the contributors take a multi layered view of the politics of US healthcare by examining it from historical cultural medical sociological legal ethical and environmental perspectives. Chapters consider major health institutions and the federal policies that guide them the intersection between health and social movements the contours of health and illness with respect to race gender sexuality age and region and the US's often conflicted role in global health governance.

God, Freud and Religion Dianna T. Kenny, 2015-03-05 Choice Essential Read Did God create man or did man create God? In this book Dianna Kenny examines religious belief through a variety of perspectives psychoanalytic cognitive neuropsychological sociological historical and psychiatric to provide a coherent account of why people might believe in God. She argues that psychoanalytic theory provides a fertile and creative approach to the study of religion that attempts to integrate religious belief with our innate human nature and developmental histories that have unfolded in the context of our socialization and cultural experiences. Freud argued that religion is so compelling because it solves the problems of our existence. It explains the origin of the universe offers solace and protection from evil and provides a blueprint about how we should live our lives with just rewards for the righteous and due punishments for sinners and transgressors. Science on the other hand offers no such explanations about the universe or the meaning of our lives and no comfort for the unanswered longings of the human race. Is religion a form of wish fulfilment a collective delusion to which we cling as we try to fathom our place and purpose in the drama of cosmology? Can there be morality without faith? Are science and religion radically incompatible? What are the roots of fundamentalism and terror theology? These are some of the questions addressed in God, Freud and Religion a book that will be of interest to psychoanalysts psychologists and psychotherapists students of psychology psychoanalysis philosophy and theology and all those with an interest in religion and human behaviour. Dianna Kenny is Professor of Psychology at the University of Sydney Australia. She is the author of over 200 publications including six books.

Cynical Suspicions and Platonist Pretensions John McGuire, 2018-04-03 In Cynical Suspicions and Platonist Pretensions John McGuire offers a critique of recent trends in contemporary political theory specifically concerning the dangers of cynicism and the contamination of public reason. In the view of many theorists and pundits cynicism remains one of the gravest ills to befall any democratic society injecting a virulent estrangement which leaves sufferers unable to trust elected representatives and unwilling to participate in collective action. Starting with a reconstruction of the performative and rhetorical tactics of the first Cynic Diogenes of Sinope c 323 BCE John McGuire aims to demonstrate how cynicism's non-defeatist relentlessly sceptical ethos provides an important counterweight to the self aggrandising designs of moralists and policymakers alike.
