The Schenley Experiment Jake Oresick,2017-04-14 The Schenley Experiment is the story of Pittsburgh's first public high school a social incubator in a largely segregated city that was highly even improbably successful throughout its 156 year existence Established in 1855 as Central High School and reorganized in 1916 Schenley High School was a model of innovative public education and an ongoing experiment in diversity Its graduates include Andy Warhol actor Bill Nunn and jazz virtuoso Earl Hines and its prestigious academic program and pensions lured such teachers as future Pulitzer Prize winner Willa Cather The subject of investment as well as destructive neglect the school reflects the history of the city of Pittsburgh and provides a study in both the best and worst of urban public education practices there and across the Rust Belt Integrated decades before Brown v Board of Education Schenley succumbed to default segregation during the white flight of the 1970s it rose again to prominence in the late 1980s when parents camped out in six day long lines to enroll their children in visionary superintendent Richard C Wallace's reinvigorated school Although the historic triangular building was a cornerstone of its North Oakland neighborhood and a showpiece for the city of Pittsburgh officials closed the school in 2008 citing over 50 million in necessary renovations a controversial event that captured national attention Schenley alumnus Jake Oresick tells this story through interviews historical documents and hundreds of first person accounts drawn from a community indelibly tied to the school A memorable important work of local and educational history his book is a case study of desegregation magnet education and the changing nature and legacies of America's oldest public schools

The book looks at how outdoor education has been transformed into an increasingly global field where established and influenced practices have been introduced into modernising and democratising nations. With contributions from the members of the board of the European Institute of Outdoor Adventure Education and Experiential Learning and representatives of the networks that stand behind it this unique book provides thorough factual analyses and examinations of outdoor learning that have never been presented before. The book contains contributions from across Europe with authors from the UK Germany Finland Sweden Slovenia Poland Norway and the Czech Republic. Chapters within the volume by non European authors provide another perspective on the European story in a wider context. As a whole the book will stimulate the ongoing debate about the nature function and organisation of outdoor education around the globe. The Changing World of Outdoor Learning in Europe will be of great interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of outdoor education leadership and recreation and outdoor sport environmental and leisure studies. It should also be essential reading for those involved in outdoor organisations in Europe and worldwide.

Food and Cooking Skills Education Anita Tull, 2018-01-29 Food and Cooking Skills Education FCSE is a complex mix of policy and practicality educational theory and pedagogy classroom and government policy. This book shows how FCSE has been at the centre of a tussle between education and policy for decades. It reviews how FCSE has grappled with various significant issues of concern that threaten to marginalise it and pose problems for educational practicalities as expectations are increased but resources are squeezed. It assesses the debate about the significance and importance of acquiring practical food and cooking skills in a society where the purchase of ready made food has become commonplace and public knowledge of where our food comes from is noticeably lacking. This has contributed to the escalating incidence of diet related diseases and the attendant cost to society and threatened environmental sustainability. In turn governments have reacted by proposals to make practical cooking skills a statutory National Curriculum subject as part of the armoury for tackling such costs. Based on detailed research conducted across England and Wales as well as comparisons with thirty five other countries or states the author makes recommendations for policy to manage this challenge facing contemporary society.

Taking Back Philosophy Bryan W. Van Norden, 2017-12-05 Are American colleges and universities failing their students by refusing to teach the philosophical traditions of China India Africa and other non Western cultures. This biting and provocative critique of American higher education says yes. Even though we live in an increasingly multicultural world most philosophy departments stubbornly insist that only Western philosophy is real philosophy and denigrate everything outside the European canon In Taking Back Philosophy Bryan W Van Norden lambastes academic philosophy for its Eurocentrism insularity and complicity with nationalism and issues a ringing call to make our educational institutions live up to their cosmopolitan ideals In a cheeky agenda setting and controversial style Van Norden an expert in Chinese philosophy proposes an inclusive multicultural approach to philosophical inquiry He showcases several accessible examples of how Western and Asian thinkers can be brought into productive dialogue demonstrating that philosophy only becomes deeper as it becomes increasingly diverse and pluralistic Taking Back Philosophy is at once a manifesto for multicultural education an accessible introduction to Confucian and Buddhist philosophy a critique of the ethnocentrism and anti intellectualism characteristic of much contemporary American politics a defense of the value of philosophy and a liberal arts education and a call to return to the search for the good life that defined philosophy for Confucius Socrates and the Buddha Building on a popular New York Times opinion piece that suggested any philosophy department that fails to teach non Western philosophy should be renamed a Department of European and American Philosophy this book will challenge any student or scholar of philosophy to reconsider what constitutes the love of wisdom

Exploring STEM Environments that Broaden Participation Tyrslai Williams, Renā A. S. Robinson, Zakiya S. Wilson-Kennedy, 2025-09-16 Creating spaces conducive for all students pursuing degrees in STEM is a constant conversation in higher education Studies establish the need for broad participation in STEM and the barriers in place that prevent matriculation through critical junctures Through these studies several suggestions and recommendations suggest supporting students through advising mentoring and research experience Very little is discussed about the tools and strategies needed to enhance students own development of self efficacy and self identity through mentorship in formal environments like the lab classroom and departments but also in informal STEM environments like bridge programs organizational involvement and mentoring groups While the environments seem very different the mission of dynamic approaches to student progression is apparent Furthermore understanding how the support evolves at each critical juncture is critical to the way in which the future of STEM will advance     Born to Choose John H Falk, 2017-09-05 Born to Choose is John H Falk s compelling account of why and how we make the endless set of choices we do every second of every day of our lives Synthesizing research from across the biological and social sciences Falk argues that human choice making is an evolutionarily ancient and complex process He suggests that all our choices are influenced by very basic and early evolving needs and that ultimately each choice is designed to support survival in the guise of perceived well being This engaging book breaks new intellectual ground and enhances our understanding not just of human choice making but human behavior overall
