National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine,Health and Medicine Division,Board on Health Care Services,Board on the Health of Select Populations,Committee on the Evidence Base for Genetic Testing,2017-04-21

Advances in genetics and genomics are transforming medical practice resulting in a dramatic growth of genetic testing in the health care system The rapid development of new technologies however has also brought challenges including the need for rigorous evaluation of the validity and utility of genetic tests questions regarding the best ways to incorporate them into medical practice and how to weigh their cost against potential short and long term benefits As the availability of genetic tests increases so do concerns about the achievement of meaningful improvements in clinical outcomes costs of testing and the potential for accentuating medical care inequality Given the rapid pace in the development of genetic tests and new testing technologies An Evidence Framework for Genetic Testing seeks to advance the development of an adequate evidence base for genetic tests to improve patient care and treatment Additionally this report recommends a framework for decision making regarding the use of genetic tests in clinical care potential to enable the selection of the most beneficial treatment and also to identify treatments that may be harmful or ineffective for the molecular underpinnings of an individual patient's disease. Such tests are key to unlocking the promise of precision medicine. Biomarker tests for molecularly targeted therapies represent a crucial area of focus for developing methods that could later be applicable to other areas of precision medicine. The appropriate regulatory oversight of these tests is required to ensure that they are accurate, reliable, properly validated and appropriately implemented in clinical practice. Moreover, common evidentiary standards for assessing the beneficial impact of biomarker guided therapy selection on patient outcomes as well as the effective collection and sharing of information related to those outcomes are urgently needed to better inform clinical decision making. Biomarker Tests of Molecularly Targeted Therapies examines opportunities for and challenges to the use of biomarker tests to select optimal therapy and offers recommendations to accelerate progress in this field. This report explores regulatory issues, reimbursement issues and clinical practice issues related to the clinical development and use of biomarker tests for targeting therapies to patients. Properly validated, appropriately implemented biomarker tests hold the potential to enhance patient care and improve outcomes and therefore addressing the challenges facing such tests is critical.

Evolution Education Around the Globe Hasan Deniz, Lisa A. Borgerding, 2018-06-21 This edited book provides a global view on evolution education. It describes the state of evolution education in different countries that are representative of geographical regions around the globe such as Eastern Europe, Western Europe, North Africa, South Africa, North America, South America, Middle East, Far East, South East Asia, Australia and New Zealand. Studies in evolution education literature can be divided into three main categories: a) understanding the interrelationships among cognitive, affective, epistemological and religious factors that are related to peoples views about evolution; b) designing, implementing, evaluating evolution education curriculum that reflects contemporary evolution understanding; and c) reducing antievolutionary attitudes. This volume systematically summarizes the evolution education literature across these three categories for each country or geographical region. The individual chapters thus include common elements that facilitate a cross cultural meta analysis. Written for a primarily academic audience, this book provides a much needed common background for future evolution education research across the globe.
