Page 8

While Tita was singing and waving her wet hand in time, showering drops of water down on the griddle so they would "dance," Rosaura was cowering in the corner, stunned by the display. Gertrudis, on the other hand, found this game enticing, and she threw herself into it with the enthusiasm she always showed where rhythm, movement, or music were involved. Then Rosaura tried to join them.... The momentum carried Rosaura's hands onto it.

(Comments: You may want to shorten up the passage to which you are responding. Use three ellipses [periods] to delete information within a sentence. Use four ellipses to leave out information within a paragraph but across one or more sentence boundaries.)

Sample Response 1

I remember doing this as a child. My sister and I said the water was ice-skating. I tried to do it the other day but it didn't work.

(Comments: This is related to the topic, but it is too short. It lacks depth of thought and development. To me this entry looks a little confused, lazy or rushed. This response would receive about 2 or 3 points.)

Sample Response 2

Tita was showing her sisters how to have some fun dropping water onto a hot cooking surface to see the water drops float across the surface. Gertrudis enjoyed this activity because they did it while dancing. Rosaura was afraid to try it, so when Tita tried to force her, Rosaura burned her hands. I think Tita and Rosaura are very different people and will not get along very well.

Reading Journal Response for Grades Pre-K-5 Karen Soll,2014-05-15 A child's connection to reading can be strengthened with a short writing activity after a book has been read. This book includes several journal responses from which to choose. The responses may be used with nonfiction or fiction and may even be adapted for poetry and plays. Select the journal response that is most appropriate and give your child time to write a short response to the prompt. If your child is struggling to come up with a response ask specific questions. For example with the journal response that asks why you didn't like the book you could say I remember you frowned when I read about Did that part bother you. If your child is a reluctant writer here are some quick tips you could try. Hold the pen while your child tells you what he or she would like to write. Sound out the words as you write the letters. Sound out the letters as your child is writing the words. Ask your child questions that may help him or her write the answer. Ask your child to connect the book to his or her life and ask how. Allow your child to use the computer to respond. Help make the writing activity enjoyable by allowing your child to respond to whatever he or she related to. When reviewing your child's work respond to the content of his or her writing rather than the mechanical errors. Journal writing should be viewed as a quick fun way to give an opinion or extend the learning. A log has been included at the end of this guide. We recommend that you fill it in whenever your child responds to a text.

Radical Critiques of the Law Stephen M. Griffin, Robert C. L. Moffat, 1997 The past two decades have seen an outpouring of work in legal theory that is self consciously critical of aspects of American law and the institutions of the liberal state In this lively volume eminent scholars in philosophy law and political science respond to this recent scholarship by exploring what constitutes a radical critique of the law examining such theories as critical legal studies feminist theory and theories of difference and critical race theory The authors consider whether the critiques advanced in recent legal theory can truly be called radical and what form a radical critique of American law should take Writing at the cutting edge of the critique of critical legal theory they offer insights first on critical legal scholarship then on feminist political and legal theory A third group of contributions questions the radicalness of these approaches in light of their failure to challenge fundamental aspects of liberalism while a final section focuses on current issues of legal reform through critical views on criminal punishment including observations on rape and hate speech Each major essay describes the underlying principles in the development of a radical legal theory and addresses unresolved questions relating to it while accompanying commentaries present conflicting views. The resulting dialogue explores wide ranging issues like equity value relativism adversarial and empathic legal advocacy communitarianism and the social contract impartiality and contingency natural law and corrective justice. A common thread for many of the articles is a focus on the social dimension of society and law which finds the individualism of prevailing liberal theories too limiting. Radical Critiques of the Law is particularly unique in presenting critical and feminist approaches in one volume along with skeptical commentary about just how radical some critiques really are. Proposing alternative critiques that embody considerably greater promise of being truly radical it offers provocative reading for both philosophers and legal scholars by showing that many claims to radicalism are highly problematic at best.
