

MATHS WITH MANIPULATIVES: ATTRIBUTE BLOCKS

Paul Swan

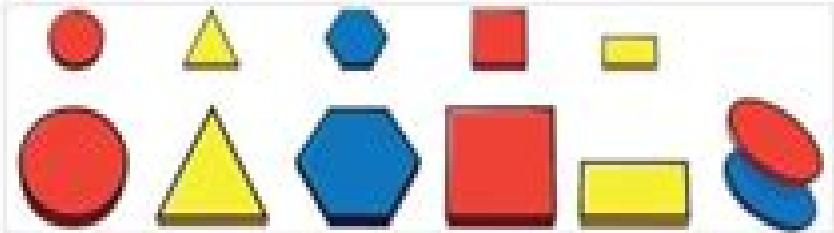

Figure 2

Attribute Blocks are often confused with Pattern Blocks and it is important that these are used together in school mathematics. Pattern Blocks come in 6 non-overlap pieces in 1 non-overlap piece, pieces to build an octagon and for tessellations. Pattern Blocks come in five pieces: Tetrahedron, Red Trapezoid, Blue and Grey Hexagons, Green Triangle and Orange Square (see Figure 1).

Attribute Blocks are plastic shapes that come in:

- Two sizes: large or small
- Two thicknesses: thick or thin
- Three colours: red, blue or yellow
- Four shapes: rectangle, square, triangle, hexagon and octagon (see Figure 2).

The fact that there is a colour hexagon in the Pattern Block set and the Attribute Block set causes great confusion.

HANDLING THE MATERIALS

The thin, thickenes, colour and shape properties for Maths' manipulatives, form the main Attribute Blocks.

Figure 3

With just four words, one can describe a single block. A large block that is orange would look like this.

Now all individual pieces make up a set of Attribute Blocks (1 + 2 + 3 + 4). Each block is different, and I suggest the original packaging is kept and the pieces packed away at the end of each session (see Figure 2). Also, it would be an idea to, as you have spaces available, to keep the sets together.

SAMPLE ACTIVITIES

POKE A PIECE

The blocks are placed on the table. At your turn, name the shape of pieces on the table, place a block measured on the desk. It need not name, indicate the 'Name, Name, Name' and make a good background of the blocks are photographed.

The partner chooses a block and the other partner must describe it using just four words. Consider how the block's attributes are compatible with the word 'and', that is the block must have all four criteria or attributes.

SPIN AND FIND

Use four Attribute Spinners to determine who to open up a piece (see Figure 4).

Pick up a piece and code it using the spinner. Students may complete the above table by using just because of the spinner they choose etc. A coded attribute block spinner may be found at www.attributeblocks.com/attribute-blocks-spinner.html.

NOT SPINNERS

Introduce the word now, a very powerful word often used in mathematics. Say the word now before each word that comes up in the spinner. For example, the piece is not large, and that, and yellow, and not a circle. This means there will be many possible answers. The pieces could be small, grey and not blue, orange square, rectangle, hexagon. Once again, not all pieces cannot fail to be included and the word 'not' does not have to be used to focus on each part in the spinner.

PLAY WITH BLOCKS BUDORS

This is a game for three players. The blocks are placed out on the table and start around.

Not talking version

Three players close their eyes and the remaining player 'makes a piece'. The three listeners must work cooperatively to find the missing piece without talking.

Figure 4

The students are allowed to name and not pieces. When they Attribute Block have found the missing piece, they continue to play their words. The first will then be you or as quickly as you can!

Talking version

Play on may encourage the class by asking questions to reflect the words in only 'you or 'we'. Asking students to use the spinner to have each provide a word support to create sentences who get 'you' or 'we' in the game.

LANGUAGE AND LOGIC

Students then use writing practice to focus their Diagrams. 'Name Diagrams' are added after John (1994 – 1995), a mathematics and language.

Figure 5

SYMBOLS AND LANGUAGE

Students may use different coding systems to describe the attributes between pieces. See Figure 6.
