Visual Information For Everyday Use Harms Zwaga, T. Boersema, H. Hoonhout, 2003-09-02 Creating graphical communication for public use represents both a large industry and a fertile area for thoughtful and innovative research and development. In this collection, some of the world's figures within the interdisciplinary field of public graphics have been brought together to share their wisdom and present a look at this exciting world. This text is divided into a number of sections representing the rich diversity of concerns embraced by visual information designers. The first section is devoted to these foundational issues before moving on to particular domains of interest within public graphics: user instructions, warnings, forms, tables, and graphs; maps and plans; way finding information and graphic symbols. This book is designed as a companion for anyone concerned with visual information design, particularly in the context of everyday use. Contributions are included from ergonomists, psychologists, commercial designers, and health and safety professionals. The audience reflects these contributions and is pitched at a level which allows it to provide both practical guidelines and a rigorous academic understanding of the field.

Quality of Technical Documentation Michaël Steehouder, 1994 User manuals, reference guides, project documentation, equipment specifications, and other technical documents are increasingly subjected to high quality standards. However, it is not clear whether research efforts are keeping pace with this increasing importance of documentation quality. This volume includes studies from researchers as well as practitioners exemplifying three approaches towards document quality: Product orientation with an eye for usability in various manifestations such as tutorials, concept definitions, tools for users of documentation to find information, methods of eliciting user feedback, and cultural differences; Process orientation in which the quality of technical documentation is regarded as an outgrowth of a process involving sub steps such as storyboarding, pre testing, and use of automation tools in writing and producing documents; Professional orientation in which attention is focused on those who create technical documentation. The volume will be of interest to a broad audience of writers, managers, and trainers with technical and non technical backgrounds such as quality managers, communication managers, technical communicators, trainers in computer usage, teachers, researchers, and students of technical communication.
