Literary Fantasy in Contemporary

Chinese Diasporic Women's Literature Fang Tang, 2019-12-03 This book explores the use of literary fantasy in the construction of identity and home in contemporary diasporic Chinese women's literature. It argues that the use of fantasy acts as a way of undermining the power of patriarchy and unsettling fixed notions of home. The idea of home explored in this book relates to complicated struggles to gain a sense of belonging as experienced by marginalized subjects in constructing their diasporic identities which can best be understood as unstable shifting and shaped by historical conditions and power relations. Fantasy is seen to operate in the corpus of this book as a literary mode as defined by Rosemary Jackson. Literary fantasy offers a way to rework ancient myths, fairy tales, ghost stories and legends; it also subverts conventional narratives and challenges the power of patriarchy and other dominant ideologies. Through a critical reading of four diasporic Chinese women authors namely Maxine Hong Kingston, Adeline Yen Mah, Ying Chen and Larissa Lai, this book aims to offer critical insights into how their works re-imagine a home through literary fantasy which leads beyond nationalist and Orientalist stereotypes and how essentialist conceptions of diasporic culture are challenged by global geopolitics and cultural interactions.

Troubling American

Women Stacilee Ford, 2011-03-01 American women have lived in Hong Kong and in neighboring Macao for nearly two centuries. Many were changed by their encounter with Chinese life and British colonialism. Their openness to new experiences set them apart while their pedagogical impulse gave them a reputation for outspokenness that troubled others. Drawing on memoirs, diaries, newspapers, films and other texts, Stacilee Ford tells the stories of several American women and explores how through dramatically changing times they communicated their notions of national identity and gender. Troubling American Women is a lively and provocative study of cross-cultural encounters between the Hong Kong and the US and use of stereotypes of American womanhood in Hong Kong popular culture. Stacilee Ford has lived in Hong Kong for 18 years. She teaches history and American studies at the University of Hong Kong.
