than affect threat decision making if they are to accomplish their mission They must also protect their own decision making and the information that feeds it align their actions messages and images and engage and influence relevant targets and audiences in the area of operations While the term inform and influence activities has been rescinded many of the principles espoused in the last version of FM 3 13 carry forward especially the synchronization of information related capabilities IRCs IRCs are those capabilities that generate effects in and through the information environment but these effects are almost always accomplished in combination with other information related capabilities Only through their effective synchronization can commanders gain a decisive advantage over adversaries threats and enemies in the information environment While capabilities such as military information support operations combat camera military deception operations security and cyberspace operations are readily considered information related commanders consider any capability an IRC that is employed to create effects and operationally desirable conditions within a dimension of the information environment

Information Operations—Doctrine and Practice Christopher Paul,2008-03-30 A no nonsense treatment of information operations this handbook makes clear what does and does not fall under information operations how the military plans and executes such efforts and what the role of IO ought to be in the war of ideas Paul provides detailed accounts of the doctrine and practice of the five core information operations capabilities psychological operations military deception operations security electronic warfare and computer network operations and the three related capabilities public affairs civil military operations and military support to public diplomacy The discussion of each capability includes historical examples explanations of tools and forces available and current challenges faced by that community An appendix of selected excerpts from military doctrine ties the work firmly to the military theory behind information operations Paul argues that contemporary IO s mixing of capabilities focused on information content with those focused on information systems conflates apples with the apple carts This important study concludes that information operations would be better poised to contribute to the war of ideas if IO were reorganized separating content capabilities from systems capabilities and separating the employment of black deceptive or falsely attributed information from white wholly truthful and correctly attributed information FM 3-13 (FM 100-6) Information Operations: Doctrine, Tactics, Techniques, and Procedures November 2003 United States Army,2012-06-09 Information is an element of combat power Commanders conduct information operations IO to apply it Focused IO synchronized with effective information management and intelligence surveillance and reconnaissance enable commanders to gain and maintain information superiority IO is a prime means for achieving information superiority Users of FM 3 13 must be familiar with the military decision making process established in FM 5 0 Army Planning and Orders Production the operations process established in FM 3 0 Operations and commander s visualization described in FM 6 0 Mission Command Command and Control of Army Forces As the Army s key integrating manual for IO this manual prescribes IO doctrine and tactics techniques and procedures TTP It also establishes doctrine and TTP for the IO elements of
