

INVISIBLE MAN Discussion Questions

Prologue

- Why does Ralph fight his battle with Manipulated Light & Power? (7-8)
- Why does Ralph need light? (7)
- What does Ralph mean when he says he is invisible? (1-4) - The answers to this is simultaneously complex and simple. Do yourself the exercise in a manner that respects this paradox.
- How does Ralph see himself? (2)

Chapter 1: The Battle Royal

- Should Ralph accept this so-called gift? Why or why not?
- In what ways does the so-called gift reflect the dream's message that the goal of society is to "keep this raggedy band running"? (22)
- Consider: "It goes along very fast, some twenty years, all my life I had been looking for something, and everywhere I turned someone threatened me what it was. I accepted that answer too, though there was a difference: the traditional even self-complacently. I was naïve. I was looking for myself and telling everyone except myself questions about it, and only I could answer. I could not find time and much painful bewilderment of my education to achieve a traditional answer also appears to have been forbidden. That was nobody but myself that I was looking for, and I was looking for I am, inevitable man?" (18)
- Discuss the meaning of Ralph's words: naïve and uncomplacently (expectations). Things considered a mark of desirable conduct – just as my grandfather had been. And what puzzled me was that the old man had died with as meachery...? (18-19)

Chapter 2: Trueblood's Case (NOTE: Chapters 2-3 are all a single day during Ralph's junior year in college)

- Why is a life-sized statue more commanding than a man that is alive? (26)
- Black involvement in Mr. Norton's family deepened/added must be expected – it is a place and interest in Trueblood's story is good for a manifestation of his own sexual feelings for the daughter of the unkillable Black man has acted out the white man's fantasy – he has "looked upon a man and had not discovered" (maybe Norton's own internal name?) – "You feel no other turmoil?" (31) Parents don't that people spend all of their lives building a fortress around a structure to govern behavior, when a face itself is the truest reality. It could not accept it is reality – he knows he has "done the worst thing a man could do in his family" but he returns to live with his family – "You a man and a man don't leave his family" (36) Does Norton accept his true reality? Does he know who he really is, or does he wear a mask?

Chapter 3: Golden Day Bar/Batmitz (NOTE: Chapters 3-4 are all a single day during Ralph's junior year in college)

- In what ways does the scene at the Golden Day reflect the problems of society?
- What role, do you think, does the doctor act (40-42) play in Bloom's larger purposes for Invisible Man?
- What does the number of one play a contributive role?

Chapter 4: Conclusion (NOTE: Chapters 3-4 are all a single day during Ralph's junior year in college)

- The message for Jack Macon from his grandfather (164-165) makes Ralph as angry as Dr. Blotstein was moments prior. Why?
- In the face of all of the confusing events and feelings of the past chapters, Ralph states that "Dr. Blotstein's attitude toward Mr. Norton was the most confusing thing of all" (165, 167).

Why Moralize upon It? Brian Danoff,2020-07-22 Franklin Delano Roosevelt famously declared that the greatest duty of a statesman is to educate The central claim of Why Moralize upon It is that it is not only statesmen who can help educate a democratic citizenry but also novelists and filmmakers This book s title is drawn from Melville s Benito Cereno Near the end of this novella after he has put down a rebellion of enslaved Africans the American captain Amasa Delano claims that the past is passed and thus there is no need to moralize upon it Melville suggests though that it is crucial for Americans to critically examine American history and American political institutions otherwise they may be blind to the existence of injustices which will ultimately undermine democracy Danoff argues that novels and films play a crucial role in helping democratic citizens undertake the kind of moral reflection that they must engage in if they are to not only preserve their political community but also render it forever worthy of the saving as Abraham Lincoln put it Contending that some of the most profound American thinking about the nature of democratic leadership has come through novels more so than treatises or essays Danoff argues that the works of fiction examined in this book explore difficult questions rather than provide any easy answers Because these works have an ambiguous nuanced and tragic outlook they teach citizen readers how to think through the moral complexities of the political issues on which they must render judgment The rich and multi faceted democratic education that citizens glean from outstanding works of fiction is particularly necessary at a time when the media landscape is often dominated by superficial viral moments sound bites and social media posts Moreover given that we today live in an era of sharp political polarization in which partisans often demonize one another it is especially valuable for Americans to be exposed to literary and cinematic works of art which remind us that none of us have a monopoly on virtue and that all of us inhabit what Melville called the common continent of men
