Light Reflection and Refraction

Name: _____

Date: _____ Grade: 7 A, B, C

Aim:

To investigate how light reflects off surfaces and how it bends (refracts) when it passes through different materials.

Materials:

- Plane mirror
- Ruler
- Protractor
- White paper
- Pencil
- Glass block or rectangular prism
- Flashlight or ray box
- Water in a transparent container (optional)

Hypothesis:

Light will reflect off a mirror at the same angle as it arrives (angle of incidence = angle of reflection), and it will bend when it passes from air into glass or water (refraction).

Procedure:

Part A – Reflection:

1. Place a mirror on a sheet of white paper and trace around it.
2. Draw a normal line (a straight line at  $90^{\circ}$ ) to the mirror surface.
3. Shine a light ray towards the mirror at an angle (the angle of incidence).
4. Mark the path of the incoming and reflected ray.
5. Use a protractor to measure both angles.

Compendium of Terminology and Nomenclature of Properties in Clinical Laboratory Sciences Georges Férid, René Dubkaer, Xavier Fuentes-Arderiu, 2016-11-11 There has been significant expansion and development in clinical laboratory sciences and in particular metrological concepts definitions and terms since the previous edition of this book was published in 1995. It is of prime importance to standardize laboratory reports for reliable exchange of patient examination data without loss of meaning or accuracy. New disciplines have appeared and the interrelationships between different disciplines within clinical laboratory sciences demand a common structure and language for data exchange in the laboratory and with the clinicians necessitating additional coverage in this book. These new sections will be based upon recommendations published by various national, regional and international bodies especially IUPAC and IFCC. This book groups and updates the recommendations and will be appropriate for laboratory scientists, medical professionals and students in this area.
