Chemistry, Problem-Solving Worktext James E. Brady, Frederick Senese, 2002-06-13 The images on the cover call attention to the relationship between macro observations and the intimate structure of chemical substances and the changes both chemical and physical that they undergo. Fireworks One of the ingredients is phosphorus a molecular form of which is believed to consist of linked tetrahedra of phosphorus atoms. The chemical reaction of phosphorus with oxygen is partly responsible for the spectacular show of light. Carbon The element is found in several forms including the familiar diamond and another recently discovered sooty substance that consists of soccer ball shaped molecules often referred to as buckeyballs. Diamond is not the most stable form of carbon and is created from other forms of carbon at high temperatures and pressures deep within the earth. Acetylene torch Cutting steel is possible because of the intense heat generated by the chemical reaction of acetylene with oxygen a reaction between molecules of C_2H_2 and O_2 to give CO_2 and H_2O . Hot air balloon The air that helps it rise is heated by the combustion of molecules of propane each composed of three carbon and eight hydrogen atoms. Stormy weather The evaporation of water serves to store energy provided by the sun. Subsequent condensation of the water vapor releases this energy and is the basis of all the weather systems on our planet and Problem Solving in Chemistry Education Georgios Tsaparlis, 2021-05-17 Problem solving is central to the teaching and learning of chemistry at secondary, tertiary and post tertiary levels of education, opening to students and professional chemists alike a whole new world for analysing data, looking for patterns and making deductions. As an important higher order thinking skill, problem solving also constitutes a major research field in science education. Relevant education research is an ongoing process with recent developments occurring not only in the area of quantitative computational problems but also in qualitative problem solving. The following situations are considered: some general others with a focus on specific areas of chemistry: quantitative problems, qualitative reasoning, metacognition and resource activation. Deconstructing the problem solving process, an overview of the working memory hypothesis, reasoning with the electron pushing formalism, scaffolding organic synthesis skills, spectroscopy for structural characterization in organic chemistry, enzyme kinetics, problem solving in the academic chemistry laboratory, chemistry problem solving in context, team based active learning, technology for molecular representations, IR spectra simulation and computational quantum chemistry tools. The book concludes with methodological and epistemological issues in problem solving research and other perspectives in problem solving in chemistry. With a foreword by George Bodner.

Problem Exercises for General Chemistry G. Gilbert Long, Forrest C. Hentz, 1986-08-14 A question answer supplement to accompany a 1 year general chemistry course. This text is a multiple choice format and can be used with any standard general chemistry text. The exercises emphasize the importance of problem solving and equation writing in the style used in general chemistry examinations and professional school aptitude examinations such as the MCAT and VCAT.
