

Georgia Government Exam Study Guide

Introduction

- Comparative sizes of the federal(3 million employees) and state workforces(13 million employees) as well as which includes more elected officials-state/local govt has more elected officials
- What areas of public policy do the states take most of the responsibility for? (public education, highway network, law enforcement, public health, welfare, recreational services)
- In what ways is Georgia's state governmental system similar to every other state and the national government?
Like all other state governments (and the federal government) in having written constitution and separation of powers
 - + No two state governments are exactly alike

Georgia Constitution

- Principles and beliefs associated with Constitutionalism
 - + Government created by the people for certain limited purposes
 - + Constitution lays out powers and establishes institutions
 - + The constitution itself should not be easily change
- Age of current Constitution, written in 1787, 235 years old
- Number of constitutions Georgia has had, 10
- Length of the last two Georgia constitutions

Current one adopted by voters in 1982 (went into effect in 1983)

- 1977 Constitution (over 500,000 words); 1982 Constitution (approx. 25,000 words)
- Biggest difference: Special amendments no longer allowed; only general amendments

- Prevailing constitutional doctrine in Georgia (and, by contrast, nationally)

The prevailing constitutional doctrine in Georgia says that unless the state constitution specifically allows the state government to do a particular act, the government cannot do it.

At the national level, the doctrine has been just the opposite: the national government can do almost anything that has not been specifically prohibited by the constitution.

- o Impact this has on the length of the Constitution and number of amendments passeddifficult to get amendments passed, longer bc of new amendment

Special amendments(those pertaining only to single localities (such as the Fulton County tax amendment mentioned earlier, they add unnecessary info to constitutions and make them longer, that's why they are not allowed in new GA constitution)
