

	New SAT Essay	Old SAT Essay
Timing	50 minutes	25 minutes
Score	2 readers independently evaluate the essay and assign scores - 1 through 4 - based on three content dimensions: Reading , Analysis , and Writing . Scores are combined per content dimension, for a minimum score of 2 and a maximum score of 8 per dimension.	2 readers independently evaluate the essay and assign scores - 1 through 6 - based on a holistic analysis of the writer's point-of-view, supporting examples, and use of language. Scores are combined for a minimum score of 2 and a maximum score of 12.
Purpose	Determining the test-taker's readiness for college and career-level writing through the rhetorical analysis of a sample essay.	Determining the test-taker's effectiveness as a writer through the development of a persuasive essay with supporting examples.
Prompt	Prompt is consistent across all administrations. However, the accompanying source text (650-750 words) will vary across exams.	Prompt varies across administrations and is typically broad and philosophical in scope. Accompanied by a brief excerpt that articulates a definitive point of view related to the prompt.
Example Prompt: As you read the passage below, consider how the author uses: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> evidence, such as facts or examples, to support claims reasoning to develop ideas and to connect claims and evidence stylistic or persuasive elements, such as word choice or appeals to emotion, to add power to the ideas expressed. Example Prompt: Is listening more important than speaking when you are trying to persuade others? Plan and write an essay in which you develop your point of view on this issue. Support your position with reasoning and examples taken from your reading, studies, experience, or observations.
Product	Test-takers should write a multi-paragraph essay that thoroughly evaluates the author's employment of rhetorical devices. The length of the writing exercise allows for nuanced development of ideas and a cohesive structure.	Traditional 5-paragraph essay with an introduction, 2-3 strong supporting examples, and a conclusion. The brevity of the writing exercise does not allow for nuanced development of ideas (in comparison to the new SAT); the final product is akin to a 'rough draft.'

Why They Can't Write John Warner, 2018-12-03 An important challenge to what currently masquerades as conventional wisdom regarding the teaching of writing There seems to be widespread agreement that when it comes to the writing skills of college students we are in the midst of a crisis In Why They Can't Write John Warner who taught writing at the college level for two decades argues that the problem isn't caused by a lack of rigor or smartphones or some generational character defect Instead he asserts we're teaching writing wrong Warner blames this on decades of educational reform rooted in standardization assessments and accountability We have done no more Warner argues than conditioned students to perform writing related simulations which pass temporary muster but do little to help students develop their writing abilities This style of teaching has made students passive and disengaged Worse yet it hasn't prepared them for writing in the college classroom Rather than making choices and thinking critically as writers must undergraduates simply follow the rules such as the five paragraph essay designed to help them pass these high stakes assessments In Why They Can't Write Warner has crafted both a diagnosis for what ails us and a blueprint for fixing a broken system Combining current knowledge of what works in teaching and learning with the most enduring philosophies of classical education this book challenges readers to develop the skills attitudes knowledge and habits of mind of strong writers
